BARN DESTROYED

Fire Thursday night destroyed a large barn housing a sizable amount of hay and two ponies at the Ivan Lyon residence on Brown Hill road, about two miles north of Youngsville, Youngsville Volunteer Firemen, headed by Chief Lee Sittler, and assisted by Sugar Grove's volunteer firefighters, fought the blaze for about an hour. Chief Sittler said the fire, which was reported at about 9:10 p.m., razed the 75-foot long and 35-foot wide structure and all of its contents, with the exception of the ponies. The ponies, he said, made their escape before firemen arrived.

One was slightly singed and the other still running loose at press time, he said. Firemen sprayed the Lyon house, . . . located about 50 feet from the barn, . . . to prevent the fire from spreading. Chief Sittler said a shortage of water in the particular area made it necessary to call in the Sugar Grove tanker. Combined, the two tankers at the scene, held 2,100 gallons of water. No cause of the fire and damage estimate were immediately available. (Photo by Mahan)

House Deals LBJ Setback; Cuts Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House dealt President Johnson a stunning setback Thursday night, cutting his embattled foreign aid program to just below $2 billion for the first time in its history.

The end result of nearly nine hours of debate upheld cuts by the House Foreign Affairs Committee and more slashes inflicted on the floor which together totaled $967.55 million.

Johnson had issued a special appeal to Congress Wednesday not to go beyond the nearly $600 million cut by the committee, but his plea carried little weight with the economy-minded House.

Eisenhower Endorses Nixon for Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, breaking his rule of staying out of intraparty fights because "the issues are so great" this year, Thursday endorsed Richard M. Nixon, his vice president for eight years, for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The 77-year-old general, the only recent Republican elected President, threw his prestige behind Nixon at a hospital news conference one month after he suffered a major heart attack.

Nixon, visiting the nation's capital, called Ike's support "a big lift" in his battle with Nelson A. Rockefeller for the GOP nomination. He said it would help him win not only the nomination but the election this fall.

HHH Indicates He Wants Ted As Running Mate

(C) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey indicated strongly Thursday that he wanted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to be his running mate if he won the Democratic presidential nomination.

He said he had heard reports that Kennedy would neither seek nor accept the vice-presidential nomination, and then added: "I have no reason to believe that. I hope it's not true."

He praised the Massachusetts Democrat in glowing terms and disclosed that he planned to see him soon. He said he had talked yesterday with two top Kennedy men, Stephen Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law, and Ted Sorenson, a Kennedy adviser.

State Senate Okays $411,440 For WSH Facility

The Senate Wednesday night approved a General State Authority Bill which includes a $411,440 appropriation for a special therapeutic facility at Warren State Hospital, according to Senator Richard C. Frame.

Frame said the grant would provide a facility that would be adjunct to the proposed Inter-Faith Center at the institution. According to the senator, the senate concurred with the passage of the bill by the House and that the Governor is expected to sign the bill into law. The appropriation is $100,000 more than sought by the Inter-Faith board of directors.

Those who have dedicated themselves to seeing the Center at WSH received a boost in June of 1967 when the state Art Commission accepted the project and approved going ahead with the working drawings.

The board is currently waiting for final approval by the state of the plans submitted. Frame added the GSA Bill also included a $584,000 appropriation for a boiler plant addition at the hospital.

Other amendments, similar to those approved last year in an appropriations bill, provided that no grants, sales or loans shall be made under the military assistance program for purchase of sophisticated weapons such as jet planes by less developed countries.

If the countries go ahead and buy the systems with their own funds, it provides that the President withhold economic assistance in a like amount. Exemptions are provided for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Israel, the Republic of China, Philippines and Korea.

The largest cut was inflicted upon the development loan fund which the committee cut by $215 million and the House trimmed back another $200 million for a total remaining of $350 million.

Before passing the bill, the House wrote in language directing the President to negotiate with Israel for the sale of 50 F4 Phantom jet fighters.

The decision to construct in Pleasant Township was made after an extensive market research was done by an outside company. The results of this research showed that there is an untapped housing demand in the Warren area which should be met through the addition of luxury apartments.

Johnson Pledges To Help South Viet Defeat Aggression

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam met at a mid-Pacific summit Thursday and Johnson gave his guest a pledge "to help your people defeat aggression" and to stand firm against all obstacles and deceptions.

Johnson flew in nonstop from Austin, Tex., and Thieu from Saigon, for two days of conferences assessing the war in Vietnam and maneuvers in Paris toward bringing it to an end.

The Paris sessions between U.S. and North Vietnamese emissaries is the one factor around which the Honolulu session revolves more than any other.

In a prepared welcoming statement at Hickam Air Force Base, Johnson noted that since he and Thieu last got together in Australia in December, the formal talks had begun in Paris.

"We devoutly hope," he said, "that they are the first steps on the difficult path to peace, an honorable peace under which the people of your country will determine their own future."

President Johnson pledged to help your people defeat aggression, stand firm against all obstacles, and against any deceptions.

"We want you to take back to your countrymen our hope and our conviction that their courage and their faith will be rewarded with a just peace and full freedom."

The formal talks between the two chief executives start Friday morning and run into Saturday afternoon, with a communique expected at the end.

U.S. officials let it be known in advance they saw little prospect of any major policy shifts or pronouncements from a meeting they said was in the routine of semi-annual get-togethers. Johnson reached Honolulu at 8:20 p.m. EDT.

As he left Saigon, Thieu was talking confidently of early victory over the Communist forces.

U.S. Troops Battle V.C. Near Cambodian Border

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops smashed into an enemy force Thursday near the Cambodian border and prisoners said it was part of a fresh North Vietnamese regiment that had joined with other units massed for an attack on Saigon.

It was the first solid contact in several weeks between American and North Vietnamese forces along Cambodian border infiltration routes, and bore out intelligence reports of significant troop concentrations in Tay Ninh Province, 75 miles north-west of Saigon.

Spokesmen said 34 North Vietnamese regulars were killed while American losses were four killed and 23 wounded in the five-hour battle.

The spokesmen said the North Vietnamese opened up with rocket-propelled grenades on armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, and this started a fierce exchange of small-arms fire.

U.S. fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships raked the North Vietnamese positions while artillery pounded the enemy until they pulled back toward the border.

After the battle the Americans found what was described as a "pretty good sized" secret base camp to accommodate about 150 soldiers. It apparently had just been evacuated and nine AK47 assault rifles, magazines, rucksacks and various documents were strewn around.

The documents and interrogation of three North Vietnamese prisoners identified the enemy as soldiers of the 32nd Regiment. Earlier this week intelligence reported that the 32nd and 33rd regiments had marched 125 miles south from the central highlands to join other enemy units refitting at secret base camps in the area.

Military spokesmen say 18 enemy regiments are camped within a few days march of the capital.

New Luxury Garden Apartment Complex Planned in Pleasant Twp.

Construction and development of a 56-unit, two bedroom, luxury garden apartment complex will be started here late this summer. The announcement was made by George and Michael Harris of Harris Homes, Erie, through the Warren County Chamber of Commerce.

The complex, the third such development to be undertaken in the past year by the Harris organization, will be known as "The Commons." The decision to construct in Pleasant Township was made after an extensive market research was done by an outside company. The results of this research showed that there is an untapped housing demand in the Warren area which should be met through the addition of luxury apartments.

One of the goals of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce program is to work towards encouraging additional housing in the area.

"The Commons" project will be similar to the company's developments in Erie and Titusville. In addition to such features as central air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, large living rooms with balconies, the site will have a landscaped park and benches, attractive street lamps and scenic walkways. The property on which the complex will be developed is located in a heavily wooded section off Highland ave., overlooking the Allegheny River.

Construction is scheduled to start after Labor Day, and the first units should be available for occupancy in late spring or early summer of 1969, it was reported.

Tentative rental rates for two bedroom units have been set at $155-160.

Introduction to the proposed apartment complex was made by Warren attorney Robert Wolfe, serving as local counsel for the builder, Michael Harris, vice president of Harris Homes.

Wolfe explained that Harris Homes has erected apartments in Erie and is now building in Titusville.

Planners also heard from former State Senator Roland Mahoney, acting as general counsel for Harris and Harris and their project "The Commons."

Mahoney noted the Titusville Chamber of Commerce had gone through the same throes as Warren with the problem of housing, noting that too many persons working in Titusville were living elsewhere thus taking away from local business.

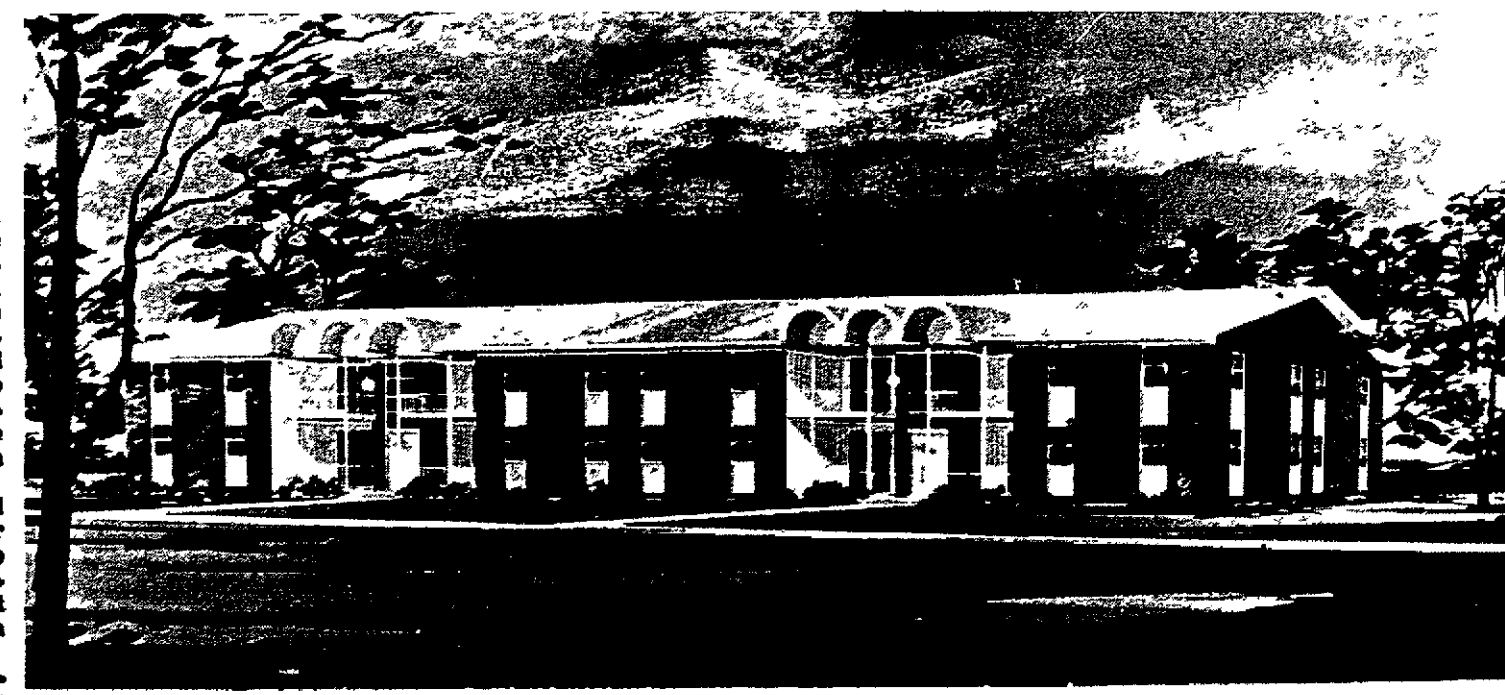

The Titusville attorney stated representatives of his community want to Erie to see what Harris built there and said they were very satisfied with the type of facility, which he termed "very attractive to renters."

Michael Harris outlined his proposal for the apartment complex to be located off Highland avenue and Dungan Blvd. in Pleasant township. Provisions have been made for a park and picnic area and the developers have sufficient land to add a swimming pool.

It is also planned to have a resident manager (local) on the site and to hire local or area contractors with a total construction payroll of $900,000 anticipated. Acreage involved totals twelve and a half with a four foot decorative wall. The Route 6, Warren bypass has been studied by Harris and Harris with a 40 foot buffer included in case parking areas need to be changed.

In regard to zoning regulations, the commission noted the site falls within the or.

Port Authority Presents Plan To Stop Robberies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Allegheny County Port Authority said Thursday it will attempt to end transit robberies and protect its drivers by initiating a "ready fare" system.

The plan was prompted by a seizure of bus and trolley holdups and the slaying of a streetcar motorman at the South Hills Junction Tuesday.

John W. Dameron, executive director of the authority, said "riders must learn to carry the correct change beginning next Tuesday."

Bus drivers and trolley operators will no longer carry cash or issue weekend, weekly or monthly permits, he said.

Dameron said, "An identical plan was adopted in Baltimore and similar plans with variations are in effect in Washington and Oakland, Calif. There have been no attempted holdups in those cities since the operators ceased to have money in their possession."

Another spokesman for the authority explained how the new system works:

"If the rider has the incorrect fare, the PAT driver will drop the money into the fare box and give the rider a receipt for the change. The passenger will then fill out the receipt with his name and address and whether he wants postage stamps or bus tickets (useable for other fares) and mail the receipt to the PAT general office."

"It sounds complicated because people in Pittsburgh are unfamiliar with the plan," said the spokesman.

Police said they are still investigating the mysterious slaying of William C. Miller, a veteran streetcar operator who was shot in a deserted parking lot Tuesday morning before he started to work.

Planning

dinance. Barry Epstein, executive vice president of Warren County Chamber of Commerce emphasized the need for such housing and added that all specifications had been met.

Two Harris and Harris units have been completed in Titusville and were said to be very successful.

The mobile home situation was again aired before the planning commission by J. Victor Rabberman, field coordinator, Pennsylvania Mobile Home Association.

Rabberman stated he had no quarrel with zoning but suggested the 1965 ordinance was in need of some adjustment for the common welfare and good of the community. He stated the ordinance acts arbitrarily when it prohibits mobile homes in residential areas.

According to Rabberman, the mobile home (not to be confused with a trailer or travel trailer) compares favorably with apartments with a living room, two bedrooms, kitchen, two baths, often a dining room; laundry facilities, furnished with wall-to-wall carpeting.

Rabberman advised that many court cases elsewhere defining mobile homes have been upheld and that Warren County cases could easily be settled by amendments to the zoning ordinance. He also suggested amendments regarding mobile home parks. It was noted that six million mobile homes, trailers excluded, are currently being used as primary dwellings.

The mobile home association spokesman added that mobile home parks produce considerable tax revenue and submitted his recommendations to planners for further study.

Planners also considered seven subdivision proposals; the Ludlow street Warren bypass interchange and other matters submitted for zoning review. The only question regarding the Ludlow street interchange apparently hinged on assuring the state highway department as to the expected mixed use (recreation and industrial) of the Warren airport.

Czechs Reject Soviet Demands To Abandon Liberalization

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's leaders rejected Thursday Soviet bloc demands that they abandon liberalization and return to the old guard existence they cast aside six months ago.

In a television speech to the nation, Communist chief Alexander Dubcek said he and the party leadership were determined to continue the new policy though "our road will not be easy" and "we need calm and hard work."

As the Moscow-Prague confrontation thus seemed unresolved, there were these other developments:

—In London, British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart suggested that the Soviet Union keep hands off Czechoslovakia. "It is not for us to order the internal affairs of Czechoslovakia," he told the House of Commons, "not for us or for anyone else except the people of Czechoslovakia."

—In Belgrade, a Yugoslav report from Prague said Soviet Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev will meet with Dubcek Saturday or Sunday, Yugoslav President Tito was reported to have postponed briefly a trip to Prague to stress his solidarity with the independent-minded Czechoslovaks. Sources said the Prague leaders may have asked him to defer the visit for the moment. The Yugoslav Communist party meanwhile declared their full support for Prague in a voluminous document.

—In Moscow, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met with Czechoslovak Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamouz to discuss economic relations, the Soviet news agency Tass said. There were no details. Czechoslovakia is reportedly seeking to do more business with the West.

—In Prague it was announced that Soviet Marshal Ivan Yakubovich will return to Moscow Friday after supervising withdrawal of Soviet troops from Czechoslovakia. About 16,000 Soviet troops were reported still in the country after Warsaw Pact maneuvers that ended June 30. Delayed and seeming slow-paced withdrawal to their bases in Russia, East Germany and Poland stirred controversy in light of the crisis.

Dubcek said in his speech "we are solving problems which have amassed in past years in the party and in our society... and atmosphere has arisen when everyone can publicly, without fear, honorably and openly arrive at his own opinions."

In reply to a letter from the Soviet Union and four East bloc allies demanding a halt to the

"absolutely unacceptable" liberalization drive, the Czechoslovak party presidium denied their contention that counterrevolutionaries had taken hold "without meeting due resistance on the part of the party and the people in power."

"We do not see any realistic situation permitting our present situation to be called counterrevolutionary," the presidium responded.

The Czechoslovak stance was defiant and it seemed to be splitting Europe's Communists into two deeply antagonistic groups of Prague backers and Prague opponents. The orthodox parties had told the Prague leadership in their joint letter that they regarded it as "our task" to see tight party control re-established, press censorship returned and anti-Communist forces dealt a "decisive rebuff."

The official Czechoslovak reply was cordial but a Communist report from knowledgeable Yugoslav sources here said government political circles considered the demands "absolute and direct interference in Czechoslovak interior affairs."

The government, according to the report, was said to regard the letter as open support for conservatives—the Soviets indirectly promised them "all-round assistance"—and an invitation for action against the leadership of party chief Alexander Dubcek.

The Yugoslav sources said the Czechoslovaks were particularly upset by a seemingly innocuous line in the letter which said, "Other socialist countries cannot agree with the present developments in Czechoslovakia." The Czechoslovaks were said to interpret it as a statement that Moscow and its allies reserved the right to move against Prague if liberals did not give in.

This contrasted with the letter's assertion that "we neither had nor have any intention to interfere in such affairs which are strictly the internal business of your party and your state."

Under Florida law, couples must wait three days after applying before they can wed. David, and 55 other passengers, finally returned from Cuba at 11:15 Wednesday night—much too late to get a license in time for the Saturday wedding. And state law forbids waiver of the waiting period.

So, the young couple decided to get married Sunday and forego the honeymoon as David would have to leave shortly after the ceremony in order to report back at Lackland by mid-night Sunday.

But the Catholic church doesn't encourage Sunday weddings. So early Thursday David and Pat applied for special dispensation from the archdiocese in Miami.

The dispensation was granted. Several hours later and the wedding—finally—was on for certain.

And just to prove every cloud really does have a silver lining, David's commanding officer added 24 hours to his leave so the young couple can have a honeymoon.

"I'm just glad they made it," David's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Allison, said after learning dispensation had been granted.

"David won't get another leave for four months and we wanted him to be married here at home in West Palm Beach."

What did David and Pat have to say?

Nothing.

They were off somewhere planning a wedding.

Sailor's False Alarm Delayed Firefighters

NEW YORK (AP) — A 19-year-old sailor was held Thursday on a charge of turning in a false fire alarm and officials said it delayed firemen from reaching a real blaze in which 11 persons perished.

Penny Coon, a medical corpsman attached to St. Albans Naval Hospital, was held in $1,100 bail. He was charged with public intoxication as well as turning in a false alarm.

Nine children and two adults, all Negro, were killed in the fire that was discovered a few minutes after the false alarm was turned in at 1:10 a.m. seven blocks away.

"If it had not been for the false alarm, many if not all of these fatalities might have been avoided," said Fire Chief John O'Hagan.

Mayor John V. Lindsay termed it "a tragedy of the most grievous dimensions," and said the false alarm caused a three-to-four-minute delay "that meant the difference between life and death."

The fire apparently started in the kitchen and roared up the stairwell of the two-story stucco house on a residential street in the St. Albans section of Queens.

Firemen, who quickly controlled the blaze once they arrived, found seven bodies on the second floor and four in the attic.

Two adults and two children escaped. The children were thrown from a second story porch into the arms of neighbors Charles Short, 24, and Navy Fireman Robert Grier Jr., 22, on leave from Vietnam.

Short had been watching television when he heard the flames. He and Grier tried to kick in the doors, but were driven back by smoke and heat. Another neighbor, Audrey Stewart, had run to a nearby fire box to turn in the alarm. A hook and ladder crew, enroute back from the false alarm, saw the smoke and summoned more equipment.

One resident of the burned house, Mrs. Martha Gibson, had gone out for some milk 20 minutes before the fire broke out.

"When I was on my way back I saw the smoke," she said. "I dropped everything in the street. I was running up there and the cops stopped me."

Three of her daughters, Berntha, 7, Stella, 4, and Bobbie Jeanie, 10 months, died.

The other victims were Mrs. Beattie Perry, 29, and her four children—Janice, 8, Reginald, 6, Denise, 4, and Charlene, 2; two daughters of Mrs. Helena Black—Semella, 9, and Darlene, 2; and Charles Holst, 24, a boarder.

Those rescued were Mrs. Black, 28; her children, Beverly, 7, and Harrison, 4; and Norris Thompson, 32, a boarder.

Mrs. Black said she was awakened by Thompson, who started putting her children out a window onto the porch.

"I thought he'd be able to get all of them," she said. She vainly tried to reach Mrs. Gibson's children in another room, then crawled out a window herself, flames singeing her hair.

Then she realized that two of her children were still inside.

"Shenella—all I knew, she was screaming. I said, 'C'mon Shenella, c'mon,' and she screamed, 'Mommy, I can't get up.' And Darlene, she was just asleep..."

Czechoslovakia's Reform Govt. In Grave Danger from Soviets

Czechoslovakia's reform movement, sparked by a wave of public anger after 20 years of heavy-handed Communist rule, is in grave danger today.

Moscow has at its disposal ways and means, short of kicking up a world crisis by military intervention, to slow down the movement or snuff it out.

The situation differs from that of Hungary in 1956, when the Soviet Union faced a full-blown revolution against the Communist party as such, and a threat that Hungary would be wrenched out of the Moscow-dominated Warsaw Pact military alliance. In this case, the Czechoslovak reformers are led by Communists and the movement is within the framework of the party.

The reform wing, however, is up against a tough battle. Forces of Communist conservatism remain strong within the party structure.

The following questions and answers are intended to outline how the crisis developed, what the situation is now and what the possibilities may be.

Q. When and how did it all begin?

A. The story goes back to February, 1948, when "action committees" seized Czechoslovakia in a Communist coup. Many of today's Czechoslovaks call the intervening time "20 years of crime" under the rule of Stalinists and their successors, the hard-nosed party conservatives. While Stalin lived and even after he died in 1953, there were harsh, bloody purges and persistent persecution of intellectuals. After 1956 and Nikita Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalin, the Czechoslovak leaders dragged their feet on de-Stalinization.

While Stalin lived and even after he died in 1953, there were harsh, bloody purges and persistent persecution of intellectuals. After 1956 and Nikita Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalin, the Czechoslovak leaders dragged their feet on de-Stalinization.

A. It was a long process. The ferment became plainly visible in mid-1957, notably among intellectuals. The internal economy was one important factor. Antonin Novotny, then both president and party chief, had neglected the economy that a nation which knew prewar prosperity saw itself in a condition of progressive economic stagnation.

Reformers mustered enough strength in the party's Central Committee, in meetings last December and January, to remove Novotny as first secretary. In the spring he also lost the presidency.

Q. What was the Soviet reaction to that?

A. Leonid I. Brezhnev, Soviet party chief, flew to Prague in an attempt to save Novotny. He was unsuccessful. It was then that the Soviet press began to reflect deep concern with Czechoslovak events. The tempo of condemnation has been rising ever since.

Q. If the reformers were that strong in the Central Committee then, why are they not strong enough now to be sure of resisting Soviet pressure?

A. Apparently, in the view of many members of the Czechoslovak Central Committee, the reform movement went too fast, got out of hand and threatened the authority of the party itself. There are many conservatives left in it and a number who are wavering. The new party chief, Alexander Dubcek, and his allies, may be outnumbered.

Q. Is the Central Committee the final authority?

A. Theoretically in any Communist nation, the party's congress, which meets periodically, is the top authority. The Central Committee is supposed to carry out its wishes. The committee's "presidium," called "Politburo" in Russia, is the ruling body which acts between Central Committee sessions.

A. Leaders of the Soviet party and four other Communist nations, who met in Warsaw and sent a menacing letter to Prague, addressed it to the Central Committee rather than to the presidium. Why?

A. Obviously the Soviet leaders expect to find most of their support in the Central Committee in their effort to slow the movement and perhaps bring the "conservatives" back into power.

Q. "Conservatives"?

A. In the Communist world, conservatives are those supporting the status quo, against change, the hard-line backers of total party authority. They are strong among the bureaucracy. The bureaucrats have become the privileged classes in Communist societies and have stakes in resisting change.

Q. Why should the Russians be so worried about the Prague reforms?

A. In Moscow's view, the experiment can produce an example of how a ruling party can be shorn of total authority. For Russia, East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary, there is danger of contagion. Already some contagion has spilled over borders, creating ferment in neighboring Communist nations.

Q. What makes the Czechoslovak system so different from the others—that of the Soviet Union, for example?

A. For one thing, the reform wave brought about an abolition of censorship over press, radio and television. With no holds barred, elements of the press produced scorching indictments of Communist rule for all to read. The Soviet role in past repressions was openly condemned. For another thing, Czechoslovaks have a cultural affinity for the West. Their history before communism was that of an advanced people.

THE 'CUSTOMER' IS PATIENT

While one of his "customers" waits patiently, ASPCA worker John Shapiro of Boston fills water bucket at Central Park, New York City, as the city sweaters in near 100-degree heat. On such hot days, the animal society sees to it that the horses that pull the park's picturesque carriages are well supplied with drinking water.

Minuteman Missile County Fair Feature

The powerful Minuteman Intercontinental Ballistic Missile is on its way to Dunkirk, N.Y. However, there is no cause for alarm. This is a U.S. Air Force display missile which will be featured at the Chautauque County Fair from Monday, July 22nd to Saturday, July 27th.

The Minuteman is a key portion of the mixed force of missiles and manned bombers which gives the United States a balanced and potent deterrent against an enemy nuclear strike.

Relatively small and bullet-like in appearance, compared to the Atlas and Titan missiles series, the Minuteman weighs between 60 and 70 thousand pounds, carries a nuclear warhead, and is about as tall as a six-story building. It is designed to be placed in hardened and dispersed sites virtually immune from enemy attack. Fired from underground silos, it arches 700 miles high, covers intercontinental distances, and travels 22 times the speed of sound. It carries an unjammable, inertial guidance system.

There are 1,000 Minuteman bases across the country. The missiles are also at Vandenberg AFB, Calif., where SAC crews are trained in launch procedures. The missiles are stored at the

Needed: Foster Homes

Have you ever given serious thought to becoming a foster parent? Could you provide a stable and loving home for a child who must temporarily leave his own home? Could you cope with a foster child who has greater needs and greater problems than most?

Although the majority of foster children adapt readily to their foster parents, and relate comfortably to society in general, some do not. There is a need for more foster parents who will work with the physically or intellectually handicapped, the emotionally disturbed, the delinquent, the aloof and self-willed teenager, and the pregnant but unwed young woman who needs shelter, counsel, and understanding.

Could you impart a feeling of dignity and worth to a young person who is not used to thinking of himself in those terms; of acceptance, love, and stability to a child who feels rejected, undesirable, and alone?

Could you offer love as well as discipline; a sense of independence as well as a sense of responsibility? Could you work long and hard with a difficult child, see him grow in self respect and in character, and then bear to part?

The Warren County Child Welfare Services needs such prospective foster parents to strengthen its program for the youth of Warren County. If you would be a foster parent, contact Child Welfare, 723-7550.

After 'Willie Won't vote'

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook.

ARE YOU A "WILLIE WON'T VOTE"? — The Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association is about to cooperate with the Democratic and Republican state committees in a drive to register the approximately 2.5 million residents of the Keystone State who won't be eligible to vote in the presidential election this November.

The campaign will feature a character known as "Willie Won't Vote", which was dreamed up by John Currie, public relations man for the Democratic State Committee, who is serving as coordinator for the drive.

Sparking the move is the simple fact that the number of Pennsylvanians who remain unregistered each year is regarded as one of the irritating scandals not only of Pennsylvania but the nation as well.

The theme of the promotion will be "Willie Won't Vote Can't Vote, He Isn't Registered."

So you'll out there, get registered — so you won't be classified as a back-sliding "Willie Won't Vote!"

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

— The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has paid $28,000 for a one-page ad in four national magazines — an advertisement that shows a brick wall, with the following message handwritten in oozing whitewash (perhaps how unintentionally appropriate):

It was pure and utter coincidence, of course, but the ads appeared in the editions of the magazines that appeared as Mr. Shafer was attending the Republican Governors' Conference (unquestionably one of the more expensive pieces of graft in Pennsylvania history).

Noting that His Excellency is "out to establish Pennsylvania as one of the top states for 'brainpower'", the advertisement notes that:

"To accomplish this, he's created the Pennsylvania Science and Engineering Board whose members will comb the world for men of exceptional talent."

It's regrettable Pennsylvania itself has no men of exceptional talent.

ROUNDED UP THE TROOPS — Over the past year and a half that Representative Herbert Fineman has been House Democratic Floor Leader he has made it a fairly consistent practice to pen some sort of a literary (unquestionable) opus to his Democratic brethren of the House of Representatives, calling their attention to the need to be on hand for the following week's sessions.

On occasion this column has quoted some of these masterpieces from the Fineman pseudonym. For this week's gathering of Pennsylvania's legislative greats, the bespectacled Philadelphia barister last week had this offering to his cronies on the Democratic side:

"Next week is roundup time. All you wranglers are expected to be at the ranch three full days, Governor Tex hasn't told us whether he intends to adjourn sine die or recess. At the moment I don't think it would be wise to put our branding iron on any adjournment motion."

Getting away from horsing around and turning to the controversial gun control legislation, he had this final word to the boys:

"There might be lots of fireworks at this coming week's session and I suggest that you bring your weapons."

After all this the question might well be asked as to just how he signed this questionable contribution to the literary world. You've guessed it — it was indeed signed "Ramrod Herb."

JIM BISHOP This Is What It's Like

Chief Justice Earl Warren, speaking of capital punishment, said: "Throughout my life there has always been something to me that was repulsive, to have the government take a life when you are asking every one else not to take a life."

Mr. Chief Justice, this is what it is like: The night is cold. The air holds its breath as the ale of men crunch down the hill on old snow. Two keepers crouch to frisk the men at the gate. Stars wink hard in winter.

The warden waves the reporters into the death house. They look disreputable in wrinkled overcoats. Some smell of whiskey.

The building is brick. A door is at the rear, as in church. There are seven rows of pews and a center aisle. No hymn books. Two doctors' lean against a wall. The young one twirls stethoscopes around his extended finger. Three turns that way. The older one leans against his hands.

The chair is front and center. It looks homemade. The black straps fall outward. The room is square and bright with light. The heat is turned high. The writers shuffle to the pews. They are now state witnesses. They whisper. Some make notes. A State Trooper crouches behind me. I can hear him breathe.

The executioner is a family man. He is tall and skinny and his features slide toward his chin. He is a worried hunting dog. He stands in the alcove to the left, spinning a dial. A door to the right opens a trifle. The Principal Keeper peeks. The warden nods. The time is 10:59. The day is Thursday.

The PK emerges. He has the rolling gait of a sailor. Behind him is a priest in cassock and surplice. He walks backward with a gold crucifix held high.

Mr. Cullen had 36 years in which to straighten out his life. Now he has three minutes. John was a dollar ninety-eight cent crook. One afternoon he got in a little deeper when he tried to rob a refugee of a $3,000 ring. John got piano wire. Instead of tying her hands, he tied her neck.

He will not look at the chair. He looks at the concrete floor. The PK nods. John turns and sits. The hands are on the big arms, and he tilts his head back as though a barber is about to lather his face. There is a long sigh. The PK asks him if he has anything to say. John Cullen swallows and his Adams apple bobs. "No," he murmurs. "Thanks."

The keepers crouch for the leg and arm straps. The executioner assists with the big ones across the chest. One comes across the chin; another tight on the forehead. The priest murmurs prayers for the dying. John Cullen could have used those for the past year. That's how long he has been dying in the death house.

The swinging stethoscope slows. It stops. John Cullen is patient. He can see by looking under the forehead strap. The faces he sees are stiff with fright. Mr. Cullen closes his eyes and sighs a big one. The executioner hurries to the alcove. There is no sound. No dimming of lights. Mr. Cullen tries to leap straight out. He is hit by 2,000 volts and 16 amperes. His body strains against the chest straps. A thin spiral of blue smoke emerges from one hand. The State Trooper murmurs: "Jesus, Mary and Joseph."

The executioner turns the juice down, then up. In the silence, the chest straps crack like bullwhips. The executioner is opposed to messy work. He makes sure. The second hand creeps around his watch three full times before he turns everything off.

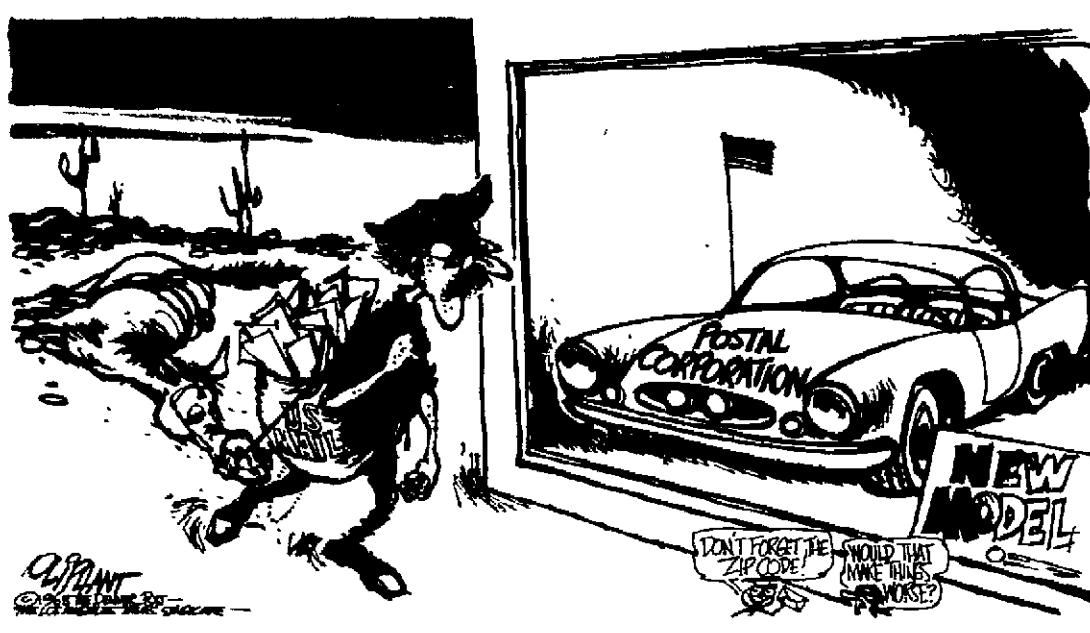

Cullen sinks back, relaxed. The keepers take the body straps off. The white shirt is unbuttoned. One sponges the chest with a towel. The PK motions to the doctors. They are professional. They leave the wall, walking in step, to the chair. The silver stethoscopes are held to several parts of the chest. They are removed from the ears and passed to the other man. He listens. The two men whisper. The older one turns to the reporters and says: "I pronounce this man dead." John Cullen is now even with the world he has just left. He owes nothing. The trooper behind me is sick.

A hospital table comes in. A clean white sheet is tucked around it. The keepers lift John Cullen. He is most relaxed. The eyes are open. A tear runs sideways down one cheek. It is alive.

This, Mr. Chief Justice, is what it is like...

LBJ Must Fill FCC Vacancy

WASHINGTON—Most important appointment President Johnson has to make—second only to his current Supreme Court appointments—is to fill the present vacancy on the Federal Communications Commission. The right man on this commission could help to revitalize the most hidebound regulatory agency in Washington and start reversing programs of TV violence.

Lyndon Johnson is the first President in American history to acquire his family fortune through radio and television, and his past appointments to the FCC—with one exception—have not been brilliant. He was responsible for elevating one of the most reactionary members, Rosel Hyde, to be FCC chairman. It was Chairman Hyde who led the move inside the commission to hand down the scandalously anti-Negro decision in the case of the Lamar Insurance Company's TV station in Jackson, Miss., after that station had thumbed its nose at the rights of Mississippi Negroes.

Incidentally, it was Justice Abe Fortas's former law partner, Paul Porter, a former FCC chairman, who skillfully maneuvered this victory for anti-Negro television policy in Jackson.

All this is why Johnson's upcoming FCC appointment will be watched so carefully by the network moguls, if not by the unsuspecting public.

For it now develops that the television networks have been kidding the public about eliminating violence from the home screen. It is true that the networks are making a play of editing violence out of such comparatively inoffensive shows as "Get Smart" and "The Flying Nun."

A group of concerned ad men, calling themselves Advertising Men for De-escalation of Violence on Television, have called this "eye-wash."

"Who thinks of those shows as violent?" demanded AMDVT's founder, Bert Randolph Sugar. "They're spoofs. This isn't what we mean."

Much more in need of editing are the shows that the National Association for Better Broadcasting has condemned, such as "Rat Patrol," "The Saint," "The Avengers" and "Guns of Will Sonnet." Apparently they will remain as routine, tootin', shootin' as ever.

Meanwhile, network officials are lining up hired experts who will try to persuade the public that the daily guppy on the home screen is mere harmless make-believe. Their campaign will be conducted along the same lines as the cigaret industry that smoking is good for you. In this case the theme will be that violence is good for you.

There is, of course, overwhelming evidence to the contrary. Responsible sociologists have warned that TV not only has stimulated violence in this country but has made people callous toward crime in the streets.

TV violence, they say, has caused a psychological conditioning effect, which has perked onlookers to stand by while people have been attacked and even killed. The witnesses feel as unable to participate as they feel in front of their TV sets.

Dr. Harry Skornia of the University of Illinois, an authority in this field, writes:

"The principal characters in Westerns, crime and private-eye series, and other popular TV programs would seem to rate fairly high in teaching effectiveness. There is considerable evidence of danger that what these individuals demonstrate will be learned...."

"Terrible emotional effects may be noticed in certain people from given programs, just as dangerous physical effects are noted on certain people allergic to certain drugs."

The effectiveness of television in teaching violence has been attested by the armed forces which, after more than 100 studies, has adopted TV as a favorite media for instructing troops in physical assault, weapons handling and the techniques of violence.

The question asked us by many readers is how can they help reduce this daily explosion of TV violence that is beamed into their living rooms? Here are some answers:

1. The Better Broadcasting people, who have been assessing TV violence for 17 years, are conducting an exhaustive survey to determine whether TV stations have lowered the violence quotient at all since Sen. Robert Kennedy's assassination. But they need funds to conduct this survey. You can help. Their address is 373 North Western Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90004.

2. AMDVT is also urging advertisers to stop sponsoring TV shows which glorify violence. Parents can help by refusing to buy the products of companies that sponsor violence.

For children, the worst hours on television are Saturday mornings, which are filled with animated violence. The Better Broadcasting people state flatly: "As far as children are concerned, 1968 television is the worst in the history of TV. The 1968 season illustrates an attitude of gross negligence toward child welfare by the majority of TV broadcasters. This criticism includes the heads of all three networks."

Not only the cartoons but the commercials are described as "disturbing."

Among the sponsors taking a firm stand against TV violence is George Conklin, president of M&M Mars, Inc., who has pledged that his company will sponsor no more shows of this kind. He admitted that he had been watching the audience ratings not the program content.

After our columns appeared, he asked his 14-year-old son, Blair: "How are those Saturday morning shows?"

"Horrible," replied Blair. That ended the M&M sponsorship.

Kellogg's breakfast foods have also turned to more wholesome entertainment for children. Beginning with the new season, Kellogg on Saturday mornings will sponsor a variety show, strictly nonviolent, to be called "The Barbara Bunch Adventure Hour."

But most of the time, the TV screen will be monopolized by the same old kill-for-thrill programs.

SYLVIA PORTER Jobs For Graduates

Never in our history has the critical importance of a college education been emphasized as much as now. Never have both employers and educators told us so loudly and so persistently that a college degree is a virtual necessity for just about any decently paying job with any kind of future.

But half of the 2,693,000 young Americans who have just received their high school diplomas will NOT be going to college. They will, instead, be shopping for permanent careers, extra training in trade or business schools, or making plans to fulfill their military obligation.

For the non-college young person there are hundreds of thousands of good jobs with bright futures and substantial paychecks looking for people to fill them. Growing numbers of employers now are offering extensive on-the-job training, and paying trainees substantial wages while they learn. In some cases the high school graduate can expect to be earning $15,000 or more a year within just a few years of his entry into the job market.

These are vital facts for parents, teachers, vocational counselors and students themselves to know in this era of soaring demand for workers, particularly in the service occupations. Here, then, is a sampling of attractive occupations now open to the high school graduate. Computer Programmers and Other Computer Workers. There are now openings for more than 50,000 computer programmers and the demand is expected to continue growing. Candidates needn't be mathematicians, often can learn the basics in high school. Many companies train beginning computer workers themselves.

Cooks and Chefs. Drastic shortages of trained chefs in the nation's restaurants and hotels translate into almost limitless opportunities for those interested in this field. The best chefs in the U.S. today earn $25,000 or more a year. Airline Pilots and Co-Pilots. Sometimes two or more years of college is required, but often a high school diploma is sufficient to become a pilot. Physical requirements are high, but so are salaries because of serious worker shortages.

Automobile Salesmen. Again, demand for effective salesmen is strong, pay is high and thousands of new jobs are opening every year to high school graduates.

Bank Tellers. Job opportunities are excellent for women as well as for men. Some clerical experience is preferred, and the job ladder may lead up through the ranks to bank management.

Health Service Workers. Less obvious occupations crying for applicants are medical record technician, laboratory assistant, dental technician, occupational therapy aide, child care attendant for retarded children, as well as the obvious categories of hospital attendant and licensed practical nurse.

Jobs on Wall Street. Today a high school graduate can earn $20,000 or more a year as a cashier in the "back office" of a stock brokerage firm. Wall Street's paperwork deluge is creating large numbers of other jobs in many categories, with the prospect of moving rapidly up the ranks in pay and responsibility.

In addition, the job outlook for high school graduates has never been brighter than it is now for appliance servicemen, airline stewardesses, business machine servicemen, cosmetologists, electricians, secretaries, real estate salesmen, retail sales men and women, telephone operators, truck drivers, welders and many others.

So if you, the high school graduate or you, his or her parents, are now discussing a career, study the full range of opportunities. Look beyond a big beginning paycheck for a job offering training in a field which interests you. Choose a job which leads somewhere you really want to go.

River Fishing

July 15, 1968

Dear Sir:

The article, Page B-20 of the July 5th issue of your paper, on the Kinzua-created condition of the Allegheny River and the plight of the fisherman, was read with much interest. We do, indeed, feel sorry for these folks who have travelled miles, and have put themselves out to a considerable extent to enjoy their favorite sport, only to find complete disappointment due to the river situation.

We, too, were a fisherman of this type once, and for more than fifteen years we tented, rented cottages and stayed at private homes and motels between Tonawanda and Warren so that we might enjoy our vacations and holidays fishing the Allegheny. And the fishing was good.

In 1935, looking years ahead to our retirement, we purchased 130 feet of river frontage along Route 62, just eight miles south of Warren. It was a typical riverside piece of land—trees, brush, swamp, a badly eroding river bank, etc., but the taxes were almost nil and the fishing was good.

We began our labors by carrying and having hauled tons and tons of stone with which to stop the erosion of the bank, which operation was successful. We removed many trees and disposed of what seemed to be mountains of brush, weeds and other growth and drained the swampy areas. We had more tons and tons of fill and top soil delivered and spread so that we might eventually have a nice, level lawn. With the improvements the taxes continued to rise but the fishing remained good.

We eventually began the erection of a cottage and ultimately completed one consisting of kitchen, dinette, living room, two bedrooms, and a bath, with extra facilities such as septic tanks, drilled well, oil heat and electric water heater. We later added a tool and equipment house at considerable cost and taxes continued to rise, not on the basis of seasonal occupancy as are levied in many other counties and areas, but at full assessment rates just as would be applied to permanent residences. And, we might add, for these taxes we received absolutely nothing in the way of services or conveniences—no gas, no water, no sewers, no street lights, no police protection, no nothing. But the fishing remained good and we offered no complaint.

Over these years all of our building materials, stone, fill, soil and whatnot were purchased in the Warren-Youngsville area, as was much of our labor and all of our food, car needs and many personal items while at the cottage. We patronized the Warren area golf courses, the movies and the restaurants. All in all we have much more money invested in the property than we had originally intended, but who cares about expense when the fishing is good.

In 1961, after 46 years of employment with one concern, our day of retirement came and we looked forward with great anticipation to winters in Florida and full summers of fishing in Warren County. But then came the Kinzua Dam and with it the disruption, if not complete destruction, of the stream as a fishing attraction. Gone, also, will eventually be the fisherman, camper, vacationer and cottage owner, and with them the many thousands of dollars which were annually spent in the Warren vicinity. The fishing just isn't any good anymore.

We wanted very much to get in a few days of fishing over the recent 4th of July holiday period, and we had our boat, motor and tackle in all readiness. But we never even wet a line, thanks, we are told, to increased river depths by the Kinzua control people so that there might be water skiing for amusement and entertainment in Warren. Instead of the many fishermen who formerly frequented the waters in front of our place there are today only a few, and these disgruntled and bitter with the treatment accorded them. The fishing just isn't any good.

We don't know now, of course, what we can do with the white elephant we have on our hands. For the most part any potential buyer would probably be a fisherman, and if there is no fishing it would follow that there would be no buyer. Our next door neighbor remarked recently that with the fishing gone the continued effort, expense and trouble of maintaining his place is more than it is worth, and that he would be more than happy to sell if there were only someone who wanted to buy. We say "Amen" to that.

We, personally, however, intend to hold on for awhile, hoping that county, township, borough and village officials will get together and exert pressure in the right places to have the situation corrected. Failing this, and being unable to find a buyer, we shall raise our building taxes, let the property go to pot, seed and brush as it was when we purchased it, abandon the place and go elsewhere.

Yes, the occasional fisherman is being poorly treated and little considered, but it is the riverside residents and cottage owners who are the real victims. The fishing—well, let's just not mention it.

Respectfully yours,
N. Ward Skitt

(Editor's Note: It should be noted that the Jaycee water skiing show was not the sole reason for the rise in the river level during the Fourth of July week. The level of the Allegheny Reservoir was above the desired summer pool, resulting in increased release at the dam.)

Local Union Leaders Prepare for Strike Vote

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dozens of local union presidents returned to their homes Thursday to handle the United Steelworkers Union strike vote next Tuesday.

Their absence means that company-level talks toward a new labor contract slowed to a walk. The bargainers for the pace-setting U.S. Steel Corp. talks don't meet again until Wednesday.

With only 13 days left before the old contract expires, the top negotiators working on the wage and benefits package kept going full tilt. But there was no indication of a breakthrough.

Union officials are counting on an overwhelming strike vote to put pressure on the industry to make a good money offer. They are expected to get it.

One local president said he was conducting a secret ballot

"but those guys better know there is only one way to vote." The 7,300-man Local 1104 at U.S. Steel's Lorain, Ohio, works will lead off the formal vote on Friday.

"We will be the first in the country, and I know our members will lead in giving the union the right to strike if we don't get a good contract from the industry," said President George A. Pashkevich.

The voting will run from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. The local was given permission for the early vote because it had already scheduled balloting to elect delegates to the union's Chicago convention in August.

Another local president in Allquippa said he had been holding meetings of 200 men nightly for a week and that everybody was ready to come in with a big strike vote.

Some State Republican Leaders Favor Nixon

HARRISBURG (AP)—While Gov. Shafer prospected for Rockefeller votes in the Midwest Thursday, a sizable segment of Republicans in his home state legislature let it be known they favored Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination.

The disclosure was made by two House members, Reps. Warren H. Spencer of Tioga County and Donald M. McCurdy, Delaware, co-chairmen of a group calling itself Pennsylvania Legislators for Nixon.

They said 29 other names of fellow Republican members of the House were obtained in a routine roundup. This was a total of 31 signatures out of a total Republican membership in the House of 104.

The announcement came after Gov. Shafer and his entourage had sailed forth on a 13-state mission to win support for the nomination of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at the Republican convention in Miami Aug. 5.

Spencer and McCurdy insisted their poll was not intended in any way to "embarrass anybody." They said it was designed to show to Nixon one list of elected officials in Pennsylvania who favor his presidential candidacy.

Rain-Soaked Girl Scouts Find Haven

KANE—Roaring thunder and pounding rain last Sunday afternoon led to an interesting experience for Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chubon of Highland road and 17 soaked, dripping Regional Girl Scout Cadets.

Mrs. Chubon was calling in cows at the farm seven miles south of Kane when a lone, forlorn girl emerged from the forest and splashed through the field to join her. A short time later they were joined by 16 other girls, ages 13 to 17, and what started to be a minor catastrophe turned into a night on the farm in a big hay barn.

The Cadets, part of a group of 33 from a five-state area, were on a scenic tour of the Allegheny National Forest with their objectives Twin Lakes and Hearts Content.

The group assembled at Brockway where they divided into two units. Normally the girls set up tents and make other preparations at the approach or sign of rain. Trudging through the forest they were unaware of the approaching storm which hit suddenly.

Emergency efforts were launched when they heard a voice—that of Mrs. Chubon calling the cows. One girl went to investigate.

The scouts were invited to spend the night and Mr. Chubon took a tractor to bring in their equipment.

The girls slept in a spacious hayloft, for many of them their first experience in farm life. Most of them were from cities.

MEET THE PEOPLE

HONOLULU (AP)—Raymond X. Aki has plugged into the tourism field with a new enterprise aimed at placing visitors in private homes instead of hotels.

Aki said Hawa Home Visitor, which he expects to start, will cater to couples over 40 years old.

The promotion, whose theme is "See Hawaii Through its People," will offer a 14-day package tour of four islands—Oahu (Honolulu), Maui, Kauai and Hawaii.

"The regular tourists now staying in hotels don't get the chance to really know our local residents," Aki said, adding that home and apartment owners will get $6 to $14 a day for opening their homes.

Justice Objects To Movie About Columbus

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A judge urged Secretary of State Dean Rusk Thursday to use his influence to prevent the filming in Italy of a motion picture portraying Christopher Columbus as a "liar, bungler, and a cheat."

Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court wrote to Rusk saying he "doubts the Italian government would permit such a monumental insult to America."

Musmanno added, "Obviously, this would be a slander and libel to 22 million Americans of Italian descent . . ."

Musmanno told Rusk: "I . . . request that you address a communication to the Republic of Italy suggesting that the United States and her people would look with great regret on any indifference by the Italian government toward the infamous project announced by Edward Dmytryk."

Musmanno's letter to Rusk said Dmytryk "is quoted as saying that he will portray Columbus as a 'liar, bungler, and a cheat.'"

Musmanno said he also wrote letters to Italian President Giuseppe Saragat and Italian movie actor Marcello Mastroianni asking their support to prevent the filming. Mastroianni has been picked to play the part of Columbus in the picture.

Freight Train Derailed

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A west-bound Penn Central freight train derailed near Coatesville Thursday, blocking all four tracks and forcing trains to detour around the main line stretch between Philadelphia and Harrisburg. No injuries were reported.

Eighteen of 41 cars jumped the tracks at 2:15 p.m., bowling over power lines. The cars damaged a furniture store and a service station.

Two of the tracks were later opened to facilitate the flow of traffic in both directions.

A Penn Central spokesman said west-bound, long-distance trains would be detoured via Perryville, Md., meaning a delay of about two and one-half hours.

The spokesman said one train, scheduled to leave Philadelphia at 2:05 p.m. for Pittsburgh, was canceled. Passengers were put on a train leaving for Chicago through Pittsburgh at 3:07 p.m.

An east-bound train due in Philadelphia from Chicago at 4:35 p.m. was also detoured, the spokesman said. He added he didn't know how many more trains would have to be detoured.

The spokesman said the railroad was ordering buses for passengers between Paoli and Lancaster.

The train apparently first ran off the track near a Coatesville railroad bridge. Three cars apparently remained with the first half of the train and were dragged a quarter of a mile.

John Smith, of Coatesville, who was working on an automobile near the tracks when the mishap occurred, said, "I heard this loud noise and I looked up and saw black smoke everywhere. I saw the cars jump the track and the engine kept going."

The Penn Central and the state Public Utility Commission were investigating the derailment. A similar mishap occurred near the same location several months ago.

ELGIN BAYLOR'S KNEE

NEW YORK — Nobody is happier than Wilt Chamberlain was traded to the Los Angeles Lakers than Robert Kerlan, M.D. Robert Kerlan, M.D., is assistant professor of Clinical Surgery at the University of Southern California, and is a celebrated orthopedic specialist. He is the team physician for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Kings and Lakers, the California Angels and the new San Diego baseball club in the National League. He has treated Sandy Koufax's elbow, Maury Wills' knee, Willie Shoemaker's femur, Elston Howard's arm, Chi Chi Rodriguez's thumb, Jim Palmer's back, Walter Blum's vertebrae, Johnny Podres's joints, Al Kaline's foot, Johnny Callison's leg, Robin Roberts' neck, Tommy Davis' ankle — and Elgin Baylor's knee.

And that's why nobody is happier than Dr. Kerlan that Wilt Chamberlain was traded from Philadelphia to the Lakers. With Wilt under the boards for Los Angeles now, he observed the other day, laying aside an X-ray picture of Shoemaker's right thigh, Baylor "will have it made."

"Elgin's always gone to the boards," he said. "And for a man who has a knee problem, that can be tough. But now with Wilt — goodness gracious, he must have the highest rebounding average in basketball history — a lot of pressure will come off Baylor. Why, he may prolong Baylor's career two or three years."

Kerlan is proud of Elgin Baylor's knee because it presented an unusual challenge to a man who had started life in Alhambra, Minn., as the son of a country doctor and who now has an All-American practice of his own.

"Baylor broke off the top eighth of his knee cap," he recalled. "And I had an interesting decision to make. I removed the top eighth of the cap, reattached the tendons and then hoped the proper tension would return. I'm a basketball fan and I see all 41 of the Lakers' home games every season, and I observe that Elgin's doing fine."

Willie Shoemaker became another intriguing patient last Jan. 23 at Santa Anita. At 36, he already was the world's leading money winner on horses — his mounts had won $40 million. But that day there was a massive traffic jam at the quarter pole, two horses went down and Willie went flying over the rail. He fractured his right femur, the bone that extends from hip to knee, and came up asking for Doc Kerlan.

"The only complicated thing in that case," said the Ben Casey of the track, "was getting a small enough nail to patch up the femur. Since Willie's a jockey, we had to get a pediatrics nail for his leg. I found one at Children's Hospital."

"His age was a factor, too, but not a decisive one. A 5-year-old heals faster than a 10-year-old, an 18-year-old faster than a 36-year-old, and a 36-year-old faster than a 60-year-old. So it would be nice if Willie were five years old. Still, he should be riding again at Santa Anita at the end of December."

Another jockey, Walter Blum, once was run over by a horse and suffered two fractured ribs, a concussion and numerous cuts. Two months later Kerlan had him in the saddle again, and Blum promptly steered one of Kerlan's own horses home — seventh.

"Well," Kerlan said philosophically, "he can get off and push the horse. Besides, the horses I own don't run very fast. I owned two at the time and both were claimed in races, so my entire stable was wiped out. But in a few days I'll be going down to Del Mar and I'll claim one myself."

"I like to go out to the track mornings and talk to the veterinarians. Horses are athletes, too, and sometimes I get ideas hearing the vets talk about their athletes. The only difference is their patients can't talk. That may not be so bad."

Kerlan has one great ambition in this era of jobbers, middle-aged athletes, expansion ball clubs, the Little League and so on. He'd like to see medical schools develop sub-specialties in treating athletes, amateurs and pros alike.

His most famous patient was probably Koufax, whose pitching career was ended two years ago by arthritis of the left elbow. But not many persons know that, in one of those ironies of life, Koufax's doctor suffers from an even more serious form of arthritis and at 46 is already bent over from the waist. "Oh, yes," Kerlan said cheerfully. "I have a substantial degree of arthritis of the spine. I've had it since my second year in college but I don't mind. I'm taking the same drug that Dancer's Mage took."

"If someone gave me the choice of having no such problem at all — or having this problem plus my same family and my same career — there'd be one question. I like my life and I'd choose it regardless."

"You see," said the man who mends other men, "I'm kind of a hero worshipper."

Bracken and Yagge Lead In Shriners Golf Play

Bob Bracken of Corry shot a low gross score of 74 to lead the field of 65 Shriners Golfers Wednesday afternoon. The fifth Shrine match at Jackson Valley Country Club.

Other low gross scores were: Bob Werner of Warren, 77; Ralph Bailey, Townville, 79; Ray Smith, Warren, 85, and Ray Stein, Warren, 86.

Paul W. Yagge, president of the Zenn Zenn Shrine Golf League and Tom Atwell of Warren were tied for low net with scores of 72. At 73 were A. F. Dunham, Warren; Dave Neil, North East, and D. Danielson. Bruce Jones, match chairman, said the Warren boys took the marbles for High Gross. They were: Paul Gary, 125; Ernie Miller, 100; Ernie Ellberg, 107; and Jones with 106.

Prizes awarded for the fewest putts by Warren Shriners were: P. P. William E. Lutz Sr., 29; Dr. Ross Bryan and Harold Elder of Sheffield, in the 30s.

Wattsburg Plans Girls Races

Starting this Friday night the girls are going to have a go at it on the Wattsburg Speedway lineup.

Marty Fleckman Leads PGA First Round at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Tour rookie Marty Fleckman took a tip from sage Byron Nelson and fired a four-under-par 66 Thursday for a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the 50th PGA Golf championship.

"Byron told me you've got to play the par 3s and the par 5s if you hope to do any good," the strapping 24-year-old youngster from Port Arthur, Tex., said.

"I birdied three of the four par 3s, and that's what did it." Fleckman, who as an amateur led the U.S. Open in 1967 through three rounds and who made golf history by winning his first tournament as a pro, birdied the second hole, chipping in from the rough, and added birdies at the 12 and 16th on putts of 12 and seven feet.

He had only 26 putts — 10 below par — for the phenomenal round.

The 66, one over the course record, gave the tall, dark-haired Texan a two-stroke lead over Frank Beard, who also putted with radar eyes for a 68 despite bogeys on the last two holes.

Only three other players in the bulky field of 167 managed to crack the 70 par of the 7,096-yard Pecan Valley course, which sweltered under 95-degree heat.

They were Lee Trevino, the casual wisecracking winner of the U.S. Open in June; bespectacled Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and Don Bies, 30-year-old assistant pro from Seattle who always seems to play his best in the PGA. All fired 69s.

This 50th tournament for America's professionals, both tournament and teaching variety, was quickly dubbed the "Sweat and Swear Open."

The searing heat sent rivulets of water down the competitors and the gallery of 12,350. The swearing came in contestants'

Perkins Complains about Dallas Housing Conditions

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Don Perkins, one of the National Football League's top running backs, says it's not easy for a Negro athlete to live in Dallas, Tex., where he gets paid about $40,000 a year to play for the NFL Cowboys.

He confirmed Thursday statements he made in an interview, before he left Albuquerque for Dallas this week, about housing conditions for Negroes in Dallas.

"Do you know my wife Virginia and I would be embarrassed to have you visit our home in Dallas?" he said. "We'd have to take you to a nice restaurant. . . Why? The Negroes on the Cow-boys can only find roach-infested houses."

His comments on Dallas housing were made in an interview with J.D. Kallier of the Albuquerque News, a weekly newspaper.

"Yes, conditions are bad," he said Thursday.

Perkins said he has his family in a Dallas motel until they can find a suitable home. He plans to leave Friday for Thousand Oaks, Calif., and the Cowboys training camp.

Sports In Short

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerry Wolman, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, is quoted as saying his team can win the National Football League championship this year. It says here the Eagles won't even win their own division and will be fortunate to equal last year's 6-7-1 record. The odds on Wolman losing the Eagles' franchise are much shorter than on the team's chances of winning. The 1968 Eagles figure to be among the weaker teams in the NFL . . .

BEAUTY IS IN THE BEHOLDER — Carol Mann, the 6-foot-3 golfer from Towson, Md., startled the press corps at the recent U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship at M o s e l e m Springs when she took exception to a story which described the girls on the women's tour as "hefty, dowdy, and dull."

"Are we amazons?" she asked during an interview. This observer has to go along with the blonde Miss Mann in the opinion that most of the girls are at least pleasant looking, well groomed and personable . . .

'Rockefeller Thursday' In Five Ohio Cities

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
AKRON — They called it "Rockefeller Thursday" in five of Ohio's most populous cities. It was the culmination of a costly, meticulously planned effort by the New York governor to persuade one key man—Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio—that Nelson A. Rockefeller should be the Republican presidential nominee this fall.

Rhodes controls about 50 of the state's 58 delegates to the Republican convention. Rockefeller's strategists concede that if Rhodes should swing those votes to form vice president Richard M. Nixon before the convention opens Aug. 5, the race would be over.

"They used to say, 'as Maine goes, so goes the nation,'" Rockefeller said this morning. "This year, in my opinion,

In The Armed Forces

Master Sergeant James W. Wolford, son of Mrs. Joseph Martin of Garland, took part in an Army Air Defense Command "Short Notice Annual Practice" (SNAP) last month at McGregor Missile Range.

He is a member of Battery C of the 55th Artillery's Fifth Missile Battalion, a Nike Hercules missile unit from Gardner, Kan.

Units participating in the drill are given only 48 hours warning before being airlifted to the range. While at the site, crewmen fire live missiles against radio-controlled aerial targets. The annual testing is designed to keep air defense units in a state of constant readiness to perform their missions.

Sgt. Wolford entered the Army in July 1948, completed basic training at Ft. George G. Meade, Md., and was last stationed in Korea. He attended Hunter Memorial High School in Tidoute, Pa.

He is a two-time recipient of the Army Commendation Medal, first in 1953 and again in 1967. His wife, the former Diane McIntyre, resides at 313 Main st., Tidoute.

A-1C Terrance L. Birt, of Russell has been awarded the distinctive service ribbon. He was recognized for helping his unit earn the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy L. Birt, R.D. 1, Russell, he is a graduate of Eisenhower High School. Airman Birt is a radio repairman in the 1995th Communications Squadron stationed at Eielson AFB, Alaska.

Robert M. Eidell, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Eidell, Route 1, Kane, is now attending Army Reserve Officers Training Corps summer camp at Indian-town Gap Military Reservation, Annville, Pa.

Upon completion of summer camp and graduation from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania he will be eligible to be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

Daniel W. Kenney, son of Mrs. Winifred L. Kenney, 11 Fifth st., Youngsville, and Norman C. Kenney, 505 River rd., Starbrick, was promoted to Army Sp. 4 on June 21.

Assigned to the 1st Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam, Spec. Kenney is a fire direction center computer in the Headquarters Battery, 1st Battalion of the division's 30th Artillery. He was graduated from Youngsville High School in 1965, and attended Bryant and Stratton Business Institute. His wife, Kathy, lives on Route 2, Pittsfield, Pa.

Economy Soars But Signs Of Cool-Off Are Apparent

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—The nation's economy soared strongly in the second quarter but signs of an impending cooling off were already apparent, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

The gross national product, the dollar value of the total output of goods and services, rose by a near-record $19.6 billion in the second quarter to $850.8 billion. This was only a shade less than the record $20.2 billion rise in the first quarter.

In each period, price increases accounted for just under half the increase and "real" growth for the remainder. Prices continued to rise in the second quarter at an annual rate of 4 per cent.

Still, the real growth in the first half was at a brisk rate of 5 per cent—a rate that is now expected to drop significantly in the aftermath of the tax increase and the tight money policy of the Federal Reserve System. Along with the drop in the rate of economic expansion the government is also counting on less serious inflation.

The big differences between the first and second quarter changes in the gross national product came in inventories and consumer spending. In the first quarter there was a consumption boom, with expenditures rising by $17.2 billion. But at the same time business added to inventories at the unusually low rate of $2.1 billion, down from the more normal rate of $8.3 billion in the final quarter of 1967.

In the second quarter these two elements reversed. Consumer buying, marked by an unexplained slowdown in purchase of non-durable goods, rose by only $7.7 billion, while inventory accumulation returned to a normal amount of $8.4 billion (a figure that is still preliminary).

Thus "final sales" in the private economy, including business investment as well as consumer buying, were already slowing down markedly in the second quarter. This was termed "an orderly cooling off" of the boom by William H. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs.

Although government spending at all levels continued to rise in the second quarter, total final sales rose by only half as much as in the first quarter, thanks to what Chartener called "a rather broad slowing down in the private sector."

Parallel to the slowdown in consumer buying, the consumer "savings rate" jumped to the unusually high figure of 7.7 per cent. This is the portion of after-tax income not spent on consumption.

The high savings rate means that consumers will probably be in a good position to absorb the tax increase without cutting their consumption much.

Purchases of goods and services for national defense rose by another $2.5 billion in the second quarter to an annual rate of $79.3 billion. Chartener said defense spending would rise by about $800 million further in the current quarter because of military pay raises, but apart from that he added, it should now "flatten out."

Oklahoma's Tramp Poet Has Won His Laurels

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — If by any chance, you're driving down some highway in Kansas and you see a stooped man in a slouch hat trudging along the shoulder, he may be a poet.

Some call Welborn Hope "Oklahoma's tramp poet," and he's proud of the title.

"A man can't write true poetry unless he takes a personal vow of poverty," he said. "He must be poor. He must really believe that the most important things in this world don't cost money."

"Being a poet means being poor," he said, "and it means being a recluse—like a Trappist monk—alone with his poverty and his thoughts."

Hope has never published a book, but more than 2,000 of his poems have appeared in all kinds of publications, from small-town newspapers to national periodicals like "The Saturday Review," "The New Republic" and "Poetry." "About 50 or 60 of them are top-flight," he said.

He's not without his laurels. He won the William Rose Benet Memorial Award in 1962 for two poems published in "The Saturday Review." The Harvard English faculty voted his poem "Wild Children and She" the best poem of 1952. There have been others.

Dr. M. B. Molloy, an English professor at East Central State College in Ada, Okla., Hope's home town, awoke his interest in poetry and set him on his course about 1920.

That course has included newspaper work, "never for very long at a time," in Oklahoma, Missouri, New York and Texas, a stay of several months among Trappist monks in Arkansas, work as a salesman and various other jobs. For the past year, he's been working in a small hotel in Tulsa.

"I'm going to hit the road again soon," he said. "I'll start through Kansas and Iowa. From there, it's up to luck and the weather. I hope to make most of the states before it gets too cold."

"Always, there's been tramp-ing," he said, "walking, hitchhiking, riding the rods if there's no other way."

Tramping, to Hope, also means reciting a poem at a back door in exchange for food, and never, never asking for money.

"To offer a poem in exchange for food is to offer something of value. That's the whole meaning of my life."

Drafts Plot to Double Crops In Two Years--For $20 Million

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — Emile-Derlin Zinsou, a doctor diplomat handed power by the ruling army, has drafted a plan to double crops in two years and better the lot of Dahomey's two million population.

All he needs, he says, is about $20 million.

"We need a loan to provide means for production," the 50-year-old president-designate said in an interview. "People have land, they have will ... but no money or tools."

The plan involves an agricultural credit agency where subsistence farmers can borrow enough to spread out.

"If you fly over Dahomey you'll see one hundredth of the land cultivated. . . . We just need the means," Zinsou said.

He looks forward to exporting perhaps 300,000 tons of corn and some cotton to supplement the palm oil.

A new peanut oil plant is expected to press 30,000 tons yearly by 1970.

"My program involves, above all, development of man," Zinsou asserted. "Governments are not for societies, they're for men."

He figures it will take five years to balance the $31 million annual budget, now $8 million off.

He hopes France will restore its $2 million budget support, stopped when Col. Alphonse Alley succeeded Gen. Christophe Soglo after a coup last December. It is understood France is waiting to see Zinsou's government working smoothly.

But Zinsou faces more than economic problems: Three former heads of state were stopped next door in Togo after unsuccessfully trying to take part in forming Zinsou's 10-man government.

Two of them were blamed for sabotaging May elections which had only a 27 per cent turnout. It's a safe bet Dahomey has not seen the last of them, Zinsou said.

Dahomey has had six governments since independence in 1960.

Zinsou lives in a two-story white house conspicuously rising above a shacklined Cotonou side street with a drain sewer trench out front.

He reads poetry—a great fan of Senegal President Leopold Senghor's works—and admits to piles of unfinished manuscripts. He has a wife and five children.

Miss Karen Hajnik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hajnik, 20 L.O.O.F. Pl., Youngsville, is the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship to study medicine at the University of Pittsburgh. The scholarship was awarded by the Warren Chapter of the National Foundation, Frank Christy, chairman.

A 1965 graduate of Youngsville High School, Miss Hajnik earned her B.S. Degree from Pitt earlier this year where she majored in science. She's currently working as an assistant in medical research projects at the university's Medical School, prior to classes starting Sept. 4.

Miss Hajnik, 20, who graduated valedictorian in high school, was named to the Dean's List three times during her undergraduate college years. She is an accomplished pianist, having studied nine years with Lillian Swanson, local music instructor. In high school she was a member of the student council for four years; art club; and model United Nations. Her hobbies include painting, knitting and listening to classical music.

Accused Cop Killer Seized by Detectives

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Detectives seized a man charged with killing a policeman, ending one of Philadelphia's greatest manhunts Thursday. The arrest came just hours before the officer's funeral.

Phillip Clark, 27, a slender Negro nicknamed "Sad Sack," offered no resistance when armed officers asked a door at sunrise in a high-rise apartment building seven blocks south of City Hall.

He is accused of Monday's slaying of Patrolman Ross F. Brackett, 25, married and the father of a 3-year-old daughter. Brackett was shot to death—apparently with his own revolver—after struggling to arrest Clark in connection with the theft of a cash box from a trolley, police said.

Clark had been sought by the city's 7,500-man police force, and by authorities in neighboring states. His arrest came as his mother and girl friend, who had led police to his hideout, stood outside the seventh-floor apartment.

Police said Clark's girlfriend, Arlene Campbell, 21, was discovered trying to buy him narcotics. She was asked to help officers locate him, and after she talked with his mother, Mrs. Pearl Clark, 45, the two women led police to Clark's room.

Brackett was slain in a West

Philadelphia neighborhood that is predominantly Negro, but which remains an area not generally considered racially troublesome.

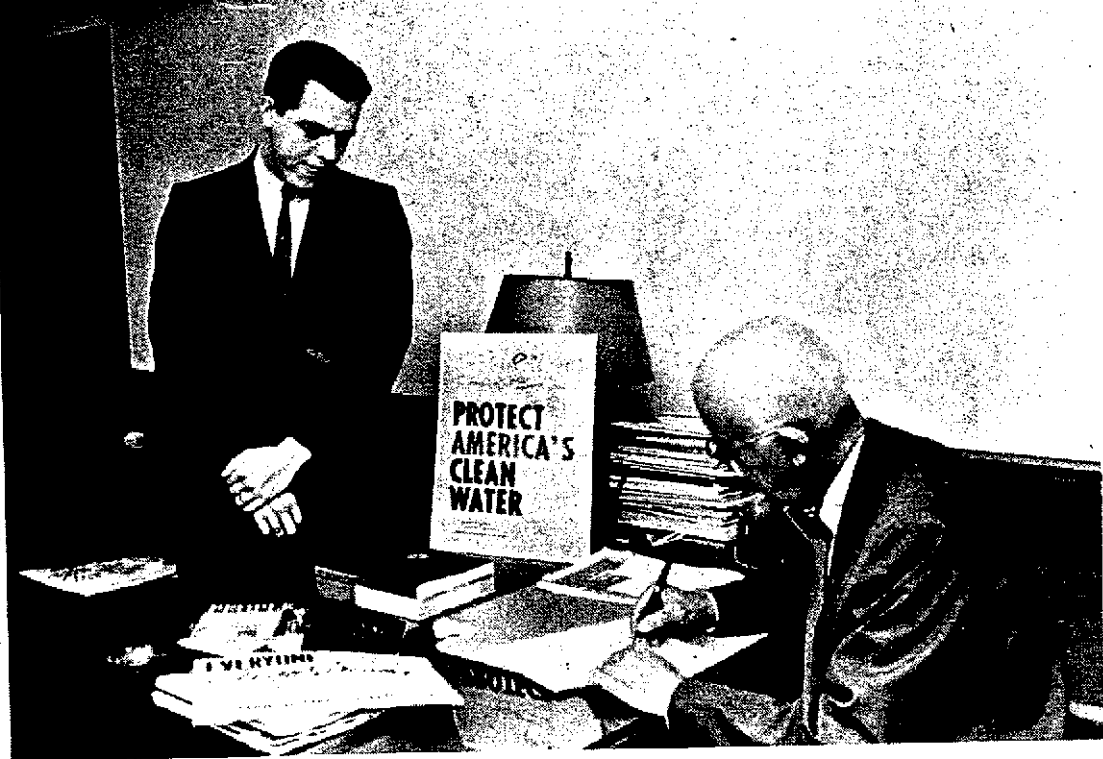

Thousands of people, Negroes and whites, had filed by Brackett's casket during the week to pay their last respects.

Among them was Common Pleas Court Judge Leo Weinrott, who said an anti-police climate in Philadelphia was partially responsible for Brackett's death. "Policemen are on the defensive today," Weinrott said.

Another was Stanley Branche, head of the Black Coalition and a self-styled Negro militant. "I came because I, too, am against violence," Branche said. "I am concerned with violence and death in the city."

Brackett was buried with full police department honors. Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo ordered all officers to wear black mourning bands across their badges in Brackett's honor.

SMUGGLING CHARGE
SARNIA, Ont. (AP) — Thomas Leslie Smith, 30, was fined $200 and costs in magistrates court on a smuggling charge. Police reported his 17-foot motorboat was stopped July 7 on the St. Clair River near Corunna for a routine safety check and 924 cans of American beer were found aboard.

CLEAN STREAMS MONTH

Mayor D. E. Conaway affixed his signature to a document proclaiming July as Clean Streams Month. Witnessing the event is William C. Smith, Health Educator, Human Service, Regional Office VI, Pennsylvania Department of Health, Meadville. One of the primary purposes of the annual proclamation is to promote an added awareness among the residents to the problems of water pollution and the measures taken by the various state and voluntary agencies to abate these problems. It also calls upon the public to participate in helping toward the elimination of polluted waters in Pennsylvania. (Photo by Mansfield)

County Above Average In Assessed Valuation

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG—Warren County is above the state average in the percentage of assessed valuation of taxable real property to market value, the State Tax Equalization Board disclosed yesterday.

In its annual report covering market values of taxable real property for each of Pennsylvania's 742 school districts for the year 1967, the average percentage of assessed valuation to market value for Warren County stood at 57.5 per cent as compared with the statewide average of 42.9 per cent.

(The market values that have just been certified will be used as the basis for computation of reimbursements to school districts for the school year 1968-69 with reimbursement payments payable during the school year 1969-70.)
For Warren County, total market value is listed as $144,676,400 with assessed valuation placed at $83,238,307 and compares with a market value of $140,725,100 and assessed valuation of $81,233,321 recorded in 1966.

Changes in the 1967 market value of individual school districts are restricted to properties going on or off the tax assessment rolls, since the law requires reassessment of properties only in even numbered years, according to the board.

This is the 1967 breakdown by school district within Warren County with market value change, market value, assessed valuation and percentage of assessed valuation following in that order:

Columbus Township—up $91,300; $4,243,000; $2,412,160; 56.9 per cent;
Spring Creek Township—up $10,100; $1,755,200; $979,132; 55.8 per cent.
Warren County—up $3,849,900; $138,678,200; $79,847,015; 57.6 per cent.

Miss Mary Fago Magazine Cover Girl

Miss Mary Fago, daughter of Mrs. Frank Foster, 4 Hertz St., Warren and the late Dr. Paul Fago, was the cover girl for the May issue of The Pennsylvania Gazette.

The magazine featured a special issue about the nation's first university hospital, the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, (HUP).

HUP is considered a great teaching hospital and Miss Fago is assistant head nurse on Ravdin 3, a surgical ward. Her mother, Billie, is also a registered nurse and graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

Today HUP employs 3.5 per cent persons to care for each patient and the ratio is much higher in specialized intensive care units.

There are 2,864 people on the hospital payroll, including interns and residents and medical members of Anesthesiology, pathology and rehabilitation departments, who, unlike their colleagues in other departments are paid by HUP and not the School of Medicine.

Neighborhood Carnival August 10

August 10 is the date set for a neighborhood carnival at 203 West St. to benefit muscular dystrophy victims. Cindy Brader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brader, will serve as ringmaster.

The carnival will begin at 1 p.m. and will feature such games as a penny pitch, milk bottle drop, sponge toss, beanbag toss, pot ball, Canadian Woodsman, pie toss, and French book stand.

There will also be food to fill up the expected hungry throng. All proceeds will go to aid the fight against muscular dystrophy and related diseases which afflict millions.

Ringmaster Brader will be assisted by Lee Eckman, Joan Hofer, Sue and Sally Brown, Kathy Chapel and Barb Brader. The youngsters got the idea to stage the event while watching TV personality Dave Thomas who is promoting these carnivals on his "Rocketship 7" children's show, seen on station WKBW.

Last year, in cooperation with Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, more than 16,970 carnivals were held by children across the country. Over $275,822 was raised for MDAA's research and patient-service program.

Outdoor Club Schedules Walk

The Allegheny Outdoor Club has scheduled a morning nature walk at 10 a.m. at the Heart's Content Scenic Area on Sunday, July 21.

Noted writer and naturalist Larry Stotz will guide the walk through the virgin pine forest at the picnic area, the walk will follow a circle tour and return to the picnic area.

Heart's Content Scenic Area is located in the Allegheny National Forest approximately 18 miles southwest of Warren on Route 337 and the Heart's Content Road.

The forest at Heart's Content is most beautiful in the morning and, for those who have never visited the area, this is an excellent opportunity, Stotz said. The walk is open to the public.

Assembly Postpones Action On Several Controversial Bills

HARRISBURG (AP) — The General Assembly postponed final action on several controversial pieces of legislation before starting a two-month recess early Thursday.

Although the lawmakers sent scores of bills to Gov. Shafer during a marathon windup session, the following measures were left pending:

— Sunday liquor sales on a county option basis.

— Legalized bingo for churches and non-profit groups.
— Major revision of the state's absentee voting law.
— Additional protection for consumers against fraud.
— Exoneration of teachers who staged illegal strikes.

In addition, numerous other proposals of lesser consequence will await the legislature's return in mid-September.

The Sunday liquor sales bill was returned by the House to its Liquor Control Committee for further study. The measure had been approved by the Senate last week.

Backers of the House-passed bingo bill indicated the proposal may be in for a major overhaul in the Senate. The measure was passed over after being put in position for a final vote.

The absentee voting bill was stalled on final passage when House Democrats refused to lend their votes for concurrence in Senate amendments. The consumer fraud legislation suffered the same fate.

Senate Republicans were responsible for the delay in the teacher bill, which is opposed by the governor. The measure would have allowed Pittsburgh and Scranton teachers to receive salary increases won through strikes.

Under a 1947 law, any public employee who walks off the job is ineligible for a wage increase for at least three years. Shafer has said he opposes exonerating persons who have broken the law.

The legislature, while passing over the more controversial bills, did approve several important measures, including ones dealing with firearms, drunken drivers and insurance protection for urban properties.

The Senate sent the governor a bill that would provide a mandatory additional five-to-10 year prison sentence for perpetrators of violent crimes who use guns. The vote was 36-12. Shafer also received from the House another bill that would restrict the carrying of firearms on public streets during emergencies, such as riots.

The House completed action on a measure that would authorize the state to suspend the license of any driver who declined to submit to a chemical test that would determine whether he was intoxicated. The vote on that bill was 168-17.

And the administration's plan to guarantee property owners in potential riot areas the continued availability of insurance won unanimous approval in the Senate. The plan calls for a pool-type arrangement for insurance companies to share the cost of protecting high-risk properties.

Court To Hear $100,000 Suit

Venango County Court will hear a $100,000 civil case stemming from a 1966 fire in Oil City.

A suit was filed by Stephen Zulkowski of Oil City against the Mutual Insurance Co. of Berks County and others.

It follows a fire Sept. 24, 1966 at the Hasson Heights Recreation Center.

Zulkowski claims that automatic pinsetters and the contents of the center were destroyed by flames. The insurance companies claim the damage is an overvaluation and that the plaintiff has misrepresented a fact with the intention of committing a fraud.

Tionesta Park Lease Finalized

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—16 July 1968—The Pittsburgh Engineer District today forwarded the formal lease for 5.5 acres of land on the left bank of Tionesta Creek, below the dam, to the Tionesta Recreation Board.

The 25-year lease, formally executed by the Secretary of the Army, is the enabling document permitting the Tionesta Recreation Board to develop the site for public park and recreational purposes, following a plan already approved by the Corps of Engineers.

Total park planning envisions a ball field, tennis courts, volleyball and badminton courts, a picnic area, a bathing beach, a large improved parking area, a bath house and sanitary facilities.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is an attractive, dignified man — respected and well liked by everyone. Dwayne holds a good position with a nationally known firm. He came home from work this evening and repeated the following story:

About 3:00 p. m. he walked from his desk to the water cooler. As he was leaning over to take a drink, his boss (an elderly man) came up behind him and gave him three hard slaps on the backside. This was in full view of the entire office. The boss then shouted in a voice that could be heard by everyone, "That will teach you to waste time. Get back to your desk and go to work."

My husband is so humiliated by this public spanking that he wants to quit his job. I've tried to tell him the old man was kidding and he should not be so sensitive. At the same time, I must agree it is a mighty strange way for a boss to treat a 36-year-old employee. Your opinion is wanted. — HOUSTON

DEAR HOUSTON: Kidding, you say? The old gaffer sounds senile to me. If your husband has a good job I hope he will not quit because of this single incident. Encourage him to consider the source and make allowances. + + +

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Many people read your column and little else. Please get across this vital message to Mr. and Mrs. America.

First: You are not going to live forever. Second: Unless you don't give a hoot about what happens to your money and possessions after you are gone, put your wishes in writing and make it legal.

I work in a lawyer's office and I've heard the following statements so many times it makes me sick: "I know Papa wanted to put his nephews through college. He said so many times but his second wife is keeping everything for herself." Here's another familiar tune: "My sister would not like what is happening in the family. She often told me she would provide for our invalid brother but her selfish children have inherited everything and feel they owe their uncle nothing."

Unless it's written down and in legal form, you can be sure of nothing, except that the law will take over. What's right morally or what "Papa wanted" doesn't amount to a hill of beans unless it's in writing and 100 per cent legal. — BROKEN RECORD

MRS. RICHARD ALLAN CALLA

Wedding Vows Pledged In Our Lady Of Victory Church

Sylvia Jean Shelters and Richard Allan Calla exchanged wedding vows recently in Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Frewsburg, N. Y. The Rev. Father James P. Hayes read the double ring rites. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Shelters of Frewsburg, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Dolores N. Calla of 23 1/2 Prospect street, Warren, and the late Mr. Bruno A. Calla.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. James McKeever at the organ, and sanctuary decorations included arrangements of yellow gladioli and white pompons in baskets. Bows designated the family pews.

The bride approached the altar in a floor length a-line gown of white silk organza over a tulle bodice with a delicate Chantilly lace collar; the dress had a bateau neckline and long fitted sleeves; a row of petit covered buttons accented the front and an organza bow topped the back fullness of the skirt which swept into a chapel length train. Her chapel length mantilla was adorned with appliques of Swiss lace florets.

Mrs. Robert Larson was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Jeffrey Minchener, Mrs. Jill Mattson, Mrs. James Condon and Miss Linda Calla, sister of the groom. All were in yellow chiffon gowns with tulle and Venetian lace and had looped bow headpieces of French braid securing their butterfly veils.

Thom Peterson was best man and groomsmen were Robert Larson, James Condon, John Harris of Olean, and John Greenhauer of Cheektowaga. The mother of the bride chose a pink knit dress with white accessories and the mother of the groom wore a sheath of mint green crepe with white accessories. Both had corsages of white rosebuds. Mrs. P. J. Feronti of Warren, step-grandmother of the groom, was remembered with white carnations.

Master and mistress of ceremonies for the reception, attended by one hundred and fifty, in the social hall of the parish were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Hurst. Aides were Mrs. Thom Peterson, Miss Bonnie Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Val Williams, Mrs. Warren Emley, Mrs. Kent Young and Mrs. Robert Haley. After the church reception, Mrs. P. J. Feronti entertained with a reception at her home. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Driftwood in Jamestown.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Niagara Falls, and will reside at 216 W. Seventh street, Jamestown, until September when they will move to Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride was a 1966 graduate of Frewsburg Central School, and a 1968 graduate of Jamestown Business College. The groom, also a 1968 graduate of Jamestown Business College, is a 1965 graduate of Warren Area High School. He will attend Dyke College in Cleveland this fall.

Q. It's a tradition in our school to decorate the inside of your locker, but I'm stuck for a new idea. Most of my friends plan to paste up pictures, but I'd like to do something different. Any ideas?

A. What a fun idea! For an attention getting locker, paper it with Marvalon adhesive backed vinyl covering. Choose any bright color or wild pattern and mix or match, coordinating plain and designed paper. Cut it to fit, stick it on, change its position if you make a mistake. When the school year is over, peel it off. No damage is done and there's no paste to be removed. Couldn't be easier and more fun!

MR. AND MRS. RANDOLPH JOSEPH GULLIFER

Becky Lue Armstrong Weds
Randolph Joseph Gullifer

The Tabor Lutheran Church in Kane was the setting last Saturday July 13, at 2 o'clock for the wedding of Becky Lue Armstrong and Randolph Joseph Gullifer. Officiating at the double ring service was the Rev. Mallard L. Nelson. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Barbara Deane. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Armstrong of 29 Hemlock avenue, Kane, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loran C. Gullifer of R. D. 1, Kane.

Altar decorations included side baskets of white daisies and pompons. The bride appeared on the arm of her father in a floor length gown of Chantilly over peau de sole with sculptured neckline edged with miniature pearls, long sleeves, and a peau de sole Dior bow. The redingote front had a scalloped edging and swept to a chapel train. Her double tier bubble veil was of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade of Fuji pompons centered with a corsage of red roses. She also observed the tradition of "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a penny in her shoe."

The matron of honor was Mrs. Terrylyn Bundy, her sister; the maid of honor was Miss Betty Ann Organski, a cousin of the groom; bridesmaids were Miss Frankie Armstrong, Mrs. Darlene Edwards, her sisters, Miss Nancy Brady, Miss Sandy Peterson, and Miss Cheryl Armstrong was the flower girl. The two honor attendants were gowned in azure blue with flowers of blue tipped pompons in a colonial arrangement. Dressed similarly but in lemon yellow with matching flowers were the bridesmaids. They wore matching crowns of braided tulle with spirals of seed pearls and veils of nylon net.

The flower girl was in a long white frock of angel mist over tulle. She carried a white basket filled with yellow daisies and yellow pompons. Upon her head was a tiara of nylon tulle with spirals of crystals and seed pearls holding a face veil of nylon net. Best man for his brother was Daniel Gullifer and ushers were Daniel Kearney, David Kearney, Lee Gausman, Thomas Cannon and James Bundy. The ringbearer was Master Paul Gullifer, brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride was costumed in mint green silk crepe with coat of Venetian lace and white accessories. The mother of the groom chose a sheath of light blue tulle with matching coat of Venetian lace and white accessories. Each had a corsage of white carnations.

The reception took place in the church hall, where the bride's table had a large hanging wedding bell above a miniature bride; the candelabra had white and yellow daisies in the center and at either side were wedding bells. Aides at the reception, attended by one hundred and fifty, were Miss Josephine Eli, Miss Donna Chapman, Miss Brenda Yonheimer, Mrs. Sandra Johnson, and Mrs. Bonnie Walker, the latter three cousins of the bride. The three tier wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom under wedding bells and a bow.

Upon their return from a southern Pennsylvania wedding trip, the new Mr. and Mrs. Gullifer will reside at 222 Hacker street, Kane. The bride traveled in a blue a-line shift with blue and white plaid trim and a matching coat in blue and white plaid, white accessories to which was pinned the corsage from the center of her bridal bouquet.

THE TAILORED JACKET wraps to the side with curving lapels that meet the tie belt. Designed by John Kloss for Cirra, the coat goes over a tank suit for sleeping, or goes it alone at home, on the terrace, or on the beach. The fluid soft look comes from the matte jersey of Allied Chemical Corporation's Caprolan nylon.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a clever trick I learned at an Hawaiian party. A watermelon had been cut in half lengthwise and each half hollowed out.

One half was set with the green skin upright (cut side down) and used for hors d'oeuvres on toothpicks stuck into the melon.

A piece of the bottom was sliced off the other half so that it could be used as a bowl, without rolling over. In this was a fresh fruit mixture, consisting of watermelon and cantaloupe balls, pineapple chunks, banana slices and other tropical fruits.

I had never seen this used before. I and all my friends thought it was a really darling idea.

Besides, everything tasted so much more delicious this way!

Mrs. G. O.

DEAR HELOISE: Japanese women are way ahead of us by using that roll under their necks to sleep on instead of a standard pillow. But I'm not far behind!

I cut my foam bed pillows in half LENGTHWISE.

This gives me several extra inches of bed for my legs to stretch out, and it is wonderful not to have all that extra pillow musing up my coiffure.

Also, think of the material I save in pillow tubing and casing!

A. H.

This is what I call a really great idea! Most of us sleep only on a small portion of our big pillows anyway... with the top of our heads at least a foot from the headboard.

Try folding your pillow in half lengthwise first, and see for yourself how much more room you'll have.

Two foam pillows for the price of one is hard to beat. Thanks for giving us this idea. Our tall husbands will appreciate that little extra head room and will be less likely to kick out the covers at the foot of the bed.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Recently a friend of my daughter came over with his guitar. But he had forgotten his guitar pick.

Searching around, I located an old credit card no longer usable and cut one for him out of this piece of plastic. And it worked perfectly.

Mrs. L. D. Hollman

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a way to make boys' outgrown shirts usable for the girls.

Remove any crest and replace it with a butterfly, flower or bird.

Then remove the buttons and put on dainty pearlized ones.

Sometimes I put ruffled lace on the edge of the collar, and sleeves, and around the placket.

The button-down collar can even take on a new look. Sew up the buttonholes on the collar and hide them with an embroidered rose or other design.

My girls are delighted with them, and it pleases me, too, to be able to make use of the shirts.

Mother

DEAR HELOISE:

As quite a number of families stick to one brand of toothpaste, here's an idea that might be useful.

Frequently when the cap is lost down the drain or thrown away by mistake, you are left with a messy tube and basin until the toothpaste is used up.

But if you keep the caps from a couple of empty tubes, you are ready when the next cap is lost.

You'll have a replacement without having a mess.

Jody Tanner

Age 13

DEAR HELOISE:

I am a new mother who has found a wonderful way to save money on nursing pads. The disposable ones that you buy are almost a dollar for just two dozen and you go through that many in a few days.

So I bought two yards of white, all-purpose flannel and cut out four-inch circles using a bowl for a pattern. Then I took four circles and sewed them together in two places to keep them together. I was able to make about

1968 Treasurer's Tax Sale Of Seated Lands For Taxes For The Year 1966

IN COMPLIANCE with and by virtue of the authority vested in me, the undersigned Treasurer of Warren County by the several Acts of General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and specifically the Act approved May 29, 1931, P.L. 280, as amended and supplemented, authorizing and empowering the County Treasurer to sell, at public sale, all seated lands upon which taxes levied are delinquent and remain unpaid, and fixing penalties, terms of sale, etc., I, the said Treasurer of Warren County, will sell at public sale the following properties as hereinafter set forth.

THE PURPOSE of the said sale, is to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes, penalties, interest and costs thereon as the said taxes are returned for the year 1966. The said sale will be held at the Court House in the Borough of Warren, Warren County, Pennsylvania.

MONDAY, AUGUST 5th, 1968 AT 9:00 A. M. EDST

TERMS OF SALE: As soon as the property is struck down the purchaser shall pay (1) the amount of the purchase money, or (2) such part of the purchase money as may be necessary to pay all taxes, except such taxes as have heretofore been filed as liens in the office of the Prothonotary and all interest and costs. In case said amount is not forthwith paid after the property is struck down the sale will be voided and the property is put up again for sale by the said Treasurer. In the event the purchaser fails to later make complete settlement at the time and in the manner provided for in said Act of May 29, 1931, P.L. 280, as amended and supplemented, any money paid under the terms of this sale will be forfeited and will be disposed of the same as purchase money. After the sale of the property of lands has been confirmed by the Court, where the bid exceeds the taxes, interest and costs, as aforesaid, the purchaser will make and execute to the said Treasurer, for the use of the persons entitled to a bond for the surplus money that may remain after satisfying the paying of all taxes, interest and costs.

TAKE NOTICE all persons, owners or reputed owners, tenants or any person claiming an interest in the following described lots or tracts of land:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that your said property situated in the Borough or Township, as hereinafter described has been returned for non payment of taxes for the year 1966, and unless such taxes, interest and cost are paid before Monday, the Fifth Day of August, 1968, at 9 o'clock A.M. Eastern Daylight Savings Time (EDST) of said day, the premises will be sold as set forth.

ON 'JOURNEY FOR CHRIST'

Conducting a "Peregrinatio Pro Christo" -- a "Journey for Christ" in the Parish of St. John in Tidioute are a group of Legion members from Philadelphia. The work is being done by 15 Legionnaires from Philadelphia, accompanied by members from the OI City Curia which includes not only OI

City, but Sheffield and Clarendon as well. The work done in the Tidioute area is under the supervision of Father Arthur Fleckenstein of St. John's Parish. The work was started on July 6th and will come to a close on July 20th. (Photo by Mansfield)

HISTORY OF TIDIOUTE

Tidioute Streets of Long Ago

By LOIS McCLOSKEY

Put on your walking shoes or gather the family in the car, and we will take you on a tour of the streets of long ago in Tidioute. The family names and the location of their homes or estates are all taken from a map included in the 1875 Atlas of Warren County which is in the Tidioute Library.

Starting at the east end of the borough or rather just east of McAluey Hill road, were located the homes of W. Potter at Potter Run, then John McCormick and a school house on the upper side of the road. On the river side were the Arters estate and property owned by Morrison, Thompson and Grandin.

West of McCauley Hill on the upper side of the road was first an unnamed building, then the Arthur Magill estate which still is occupied. For many years it was owned by the late Charles King and operated as a dairy farm. Next was the home of H. C. Lott which later was the Corl home for many years, and is now owned and occupied by Mrs. Harry Stoneburg. Next door was at one time, the Buchanan Inn. We have been unable to find out if it was the house standing on that lot today. It appears to be too small for an Inn. From some source, we have heard that the house now owned and occupied by Mrs. Spencer, was the Buchanan Inn. Directly across the street from the Inn on the old map, was the residence of W. Buchanan, and just west of it stood the Dr. Shugert home. This Dr. Shugert was the father of N. Shugert who later practiced here and lived with his sisters Lella, a piano teacher, and Gertrude, in the home now owned and occupied by the Nicholsons.

Beyond the Inn is first an unnamed house, then the G. Kinnear home. This area is now grown up in trees and weeds. According to old timers here, the house was willed to Kinnear heirs who never could settle the estate to the satisfaction of all, so the house stood unoccupied until it finally fell apart. It had been a show place in its day. We do not know who owns the property today. Another Mrs. Lott lived next door to the Kinnear home. The B. Courson estate, fronting Main st. and a large acreage back of the C. Benner estate is now owned and occupied by W. Ben Courson, great grandson of B. Courson, one Tidioute's pioneer settlers. C.

Benner was the grandfather of Fred, Albert and Harriet Benner Gustafson. He was interested in oil and traveled to South America. An item in one of the old Tidioute papers states that Mrs. C. Benner and daughter Juanita were sailing to join Mr. Benner in South America. According to his grandchildren, Benner and family left South America with what amounted to a fortune in those days. The ship was attacked by pirates and Benner returned home almost penniless.

Next to the Shugert home on the river side of the road were the homes of R. H. Morrison, J. Christy, Charles King, grandfather of George B. King, a Mrs. E. Brown, another C. Benner property and then a large estate of C. G. Fagundus for whom Fagundus was named. Continuing down street are the homes of C. Roup, J. Bircell, property of J. B. Courson, another property bearing the name of Mrs. Shugert.

Next to the Shugert home on the river side of the road were the homes of B. Gorman, a Mrs. McCue, and R. H. Morris lived in the corner house, perhaps now the home of the Keith Wolford's. Designated in this area along the river was property belonging to the Allegheny Lumber and Oil Company and an old saw mill.

Crossing the street opposite the home of C. Roup were the homes of E. Shugert, T. B. Monks, B. Christy, W. Magill, an unnamed house, then on the corner opposite the Morrison house, was the home of a J. Myers. Back of these homes are properties of J. Huey and seven acres belonging to J. McGuire.

Proceeding up Church street past the Free Methodist Church was the home of a Magill and on the lower side of Jefferson street were C. Landerken, W. Kitzinger, J. Holden, property of J. L. Grandin, and the home of a Deroeh A. Robry. Opposite Kitzingers were the homes of E. E. Jones, S. B. Murphy, W. H. Morris, G. Brant, J. Clark and P. Smith. Back of the Murphy house was a McCurdy family and seven acres of land marked L. H. Morrison. All of these houses were east of Evans street.

Returning to Main street on the river side east of Church street was a house belonging to J. L. Grandin; a Mrs. Kemble, R. H. Morrison, E. Delong, and another J. L. Grandin property. Below these houses were the homes of H. Walters and J. Warren. On the opposite side of the street, the present Free Methodist Church was designated as the Swedish Church, although we do not find it in any of the old church records of Tidioute.

Next to this church were homes of Mrs. E. Houty, B. Gorman, R. H. Morrison and Henry Evans at the corner of Evans and Main street. This street starts at Main and ends at Jefferson st.

From Evans street going west were the homes of J. Parshall, a Mrs. McGee, J. B. Walker, Mrs. Thomson, a large lot, and home of P. Smith; a lot owned by J. Parshall on which a Parshall home was later built. It is now the home of William Konkile. Directly back of the Parshall property was the Old Cemetery started around 1821. Next were the homes of J. K. Burnett, H. S. Evans, D. W. Clark, now the home of the James King family. On the corner was the home of J. Wible. According to the Jahu Hunter biography, Hunter built a home on this corner for his son Livingston when he married Lillian Accomb.

A number of years ago Verne Clinger moved his family from Fagundus to the Hunter home which he purchased. After Mrs. Clinger's death and that of their daughter Lois Clinger, Clinger moved to Titusville. He now makes his home with Mrs. Florence Clinger Grandin, the widow of Elliot Grandin, son of W. J. Grandin Jr.

Clinger sold the property to the Karl Niemann family who now resides there. The only

Glenn Bliss New Commander

Glenn Bliss, the first World War I veteran to become Commander of the VFW Pequignot- Yeager Post 8803, was installed Sunday night, July 14 by retiring Commander George Tipton.

Installed with Bliss were Daniel Schreckengost, as Senior Vice-Commander, Daniel (Ike) Kane, Junior Vice-Commander and James Froman as Chaplain.

Bliss was drafted and did his basic training at Fort Lee, Va., and shipped to Liverpool, England as a private in the Army artillery, crossed the English Channel and landed at Le Havre, France, where he was for the duration of the War.

He was mustered out of service on June 15, 1919 at Fort Dix, N.J. Bliss is one of the few veterans who still carries his draft notice and his discharge papers. He says he is one of the lucky ones, he returned home without any battle scars.

other house on Walnut street at that time was the home of Dr. Charles Kemble, father of the younger Dr. Charles Kemble and William Kemble who operated the Kemble Drug Store in the Grandin building and was post master in the early 1900's.

The first Dr. Kemble, along with Henry Evans built what is now known as the old A. Dunn store, old Masonic Lodge and IOOF Hall. In the biography of the Kemble family it is stated that this Dr. Kemble was a skilled taxidermist and that his store windows were filled with stuffed birds, animals and snakes.

Since the Kemble home was built on the corner of Walnut and Jefferson sts. it has been owned by just two families. First the Gesin family from Forest County and now the Robert Killmer family. Next week we will continue our walk on the streets of long ago.
